For That Purpose Passes Lower House of Congress.

After a ten years' struggle, the measure passed a bill providing for the purchase and construction of American embassies, legations and consular buildings abroad. The measure was passed through under a suspension of the rules by a standing vote of 141 to 39, the announcement of the result by the speaker being greeted with applause.

The senate, which on several occasions in the past has adopted similar bills, is expected to ratify the act of the house.

Representative Lowden, of Illinois, author of the bill, led the fight for it, and Representative Longworth, of Ohio, the opposition to the measure came from the democratic side.

Representative Culp, of Indiana, and Underwood, of Alabama, making the principal speeches. Mr. Underwood declared that every secretary of state from Olney down had urged the adoption of such legislation.

THAW LOSES LAST HOPE.

Court of Appeals Dismisses His Appeal from Former Adviser Decision.

Harry K. Thaw's appeal from the decision adverse to his contention that he is being illegally detained in the state hospital for the insane at McLean, has been dismissed by the court of appeals of New York. This practically sweeps away his last hope for release.

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, in her petition to the court, set forth that she believed "that the health of her son is in constant danger," and sought his release because of the "unprecedented and inhuman treatment of a sane, accomplished man in an institution for the insane."

Vice-President Sherman cast the deciding vote which adopted the ruling. The substitute for the ocean mail vote bill in the Senate. The vote was 29 to 29 when the Vice-President broke the tie. Vice-President Sherman again voted to break a tie on the final passage of the ship subsidy bill. The vote was 32 to 29 and Mr. Sherman voted for the bill.

Wilt Resistant Cotton

Why have your cotton crop injured or destroyed by the "Wilt" or "black root" when you can grow full crops of cotton on your worst infected soils by planting seed of Wood's Wilt Resistant Cotton? This cotton is grown by every farmer on all wilt or black root lands and it always holds a good stand. It is the best "poor land" cotton in the South. Rev. J. W. Knowles made 50 bales on 40 acres of wilt land. Mr. E. Willis says he would pay $10.00 a bushel for the seed if he had none. Seed are worth $1.25 per bushel and are in great demand. Write for folder giving full description of the cotton and testimonials from the best farmers in this section.

The Famous Rayo

Does Not Strain the Eyes

Don't use a small, concentrated light over one shoulder. It puts an unequal strain on your eyes. Use a diffused, soft, mellow light that cannot flicker, that equalizes the work of the eyes, such as the Rayo Lamp gives, and avoid eye strain.

The Rayo is designed to give the best light, and it does. It has a strong, durable shade-holder that is held firm and true. A new burner gives added strength. Made of solid brass and finished in nickel. Easy to keep polished. The Rayo is low priced, but no other lamp gives a better light at any price.

GENERAL NEWS. After having spent one fortune, and while claiming to be in the line of another, which he was said to have been expecting daily, Paul Durand, 23 years old, a French cook, accidentally fell from a gallery in a rooming house at New Orleans, and was fatally injured. Durand was said to have been a member of a prominent family of France.

Tentative plans were made for the campaign by which it is hoped to secure the 1912 Confederate reunion for Macon, Ga. At a meeting held at the chamber of commerce rooms, committees were named to take up the work, and it is expected that within ten days or two weeks the movement will take a definite form. Plans were made to secure a fund of at least $75,000, which will be used in the campaign to secure the reunion, and in making arrangements for entertainment of the reunion for the year.

For writing the best short story, a prize of $25 has been won by Miss Dorothy Smith, of Atlanta, Ga. The contest was organized by the Ocean Log Book, issued by the Ocean Accident and Guarantee corporation, of London, and the story by Miss Smith appeared in the November issue. The second prize in the contest for the February number of the publication was won by Mrs. W. H. Nabors, of Atlanta, Ga.

News was received at Dalton, Ga., of a boiler explosion that took place at the saw mill of P. O. Casey, in Murray county. Henry Winter was killed by the explosion, being hurled 30 feet. A son of the owner of the mill was badly injured and may die. Two other men who were working at the mill were seriously injured, but it is said they will recover.

Hugh McNair, the 18-year-old youth who was stabbed in an altercation several days ago with Prof. Cleve Edwards, principal of the public school at Gillette, Miss., died. Edwards surrendered to the authorities. The trouble grew out of an alleged attack by McNair and two companions on Edwards upon his return from a visit to a young woman, for whose attention all four participants were rivals.

Oscar Wilson, who disappeared from his home in Hanover, Coosa county, Ala., in October, 1906, and whose relatives thought him dead, has turned up at Grand Junction, Colorado. His children, Albert N. Wilson and Miss Susie Wilson, of Montgomery, has just received a letter from him, and the family will soon be reunited. Mrs. Wilson died from grief years after her husband's disappearance.

The Metropolitan Opera company announces that its three-year contract with Enrico Caruso, the tenor, which expires this spring, will be renewed on a basis of $22,000 for each of approximately 100 performances a year. This is an advance of $2,000 a performance over the present contract.

The Ohio house and senate have adopted separate resolutions calling upon congress to adopt the resolution providing for the ratification of an amendment to the federal constitution so as to have United States senators elected by vote of the people. Governor Harmon urged the action.

CONTENTS AND VALUES

BY CHEMICAL ANALYSIS

State Publishes Guano Bulletin Every Year Showing Contents of Different Brands and Kinds.

It is said that the farmers are very slow to benefit by money expended for their interest by the government and the state. The national government spends a great deal of money on publishing bulletins on different sorts of crops, as does the state. But very few farmers take the trouble to send and get them, although they are free.

Years ago the state began the work of trying to get guano made and handled on a basis that the farmers could, if they would, get what they pay for, get plant food thereby pay for only what they use. To that end the state maintains an expensive organization in the department of agriculture at Montgomery and the chemical laboratories at Auburn, for the testing of fertilizers.

Do the factories send in samples? That would be very easy for them. For they could send in samples of very high grade goods, and thus get rated as high grade factories, when the stuff they sold would be, perhaps, very common. So the state does not do it that way. It has a large number of salaried inspectors who travel over the state and go into factories, warehouses and railroad cars, take small samples from all different brands they find in each place, label them and send them in to the laboratory; when all the samples of all the sorts are sent in, at the end of the season the chemists put all the samples of each brand together and analyze them. No warning is given when the inspectors are coming, and they come often, and get just what they find at every public place, switch, factory, car and warehouse where there is guano. Thus it is found out what is being put in the guano that is sold to the farmers. Ever since the Elba Fertilizer Works began business the state inspectors and chemists have given on its goods a good name. They have always reported high grade goods—the plant food values showing up finely, and nearly always way above the guaranteed values.

The 1910 Fertilizer Book shows that the Elba Fertilizer Works is at the very top on making square goods with plenty of value to them. On every brand the goods were found to have from one dollar up more value than required to the ton. In other words the makers of this guano were putting in every ton one dollar, two dollars or two and a half dollars more plant food than they had to have or claimed to have.

The inspectors and chemists did not dish out good records regardless of truth; many brands are shown up with a bad record. The report shows facts just as they were. Every farmer ought to have a copy of the book. In it is a report of every brand of every factory that sells goods in Alabama. It would be worth from five to fifty dollars to the careful farmer who wanted to know what he is getting for his money to have the book at home where he can study it. Every farmer ought to have it. It can be obtained by writing Hon. R. F. Kohn, Commissioner of Agriculture, Montgomery, Ala., for a copy of the Fertilizer Analysis Annual for 1910. You and the other farmers who buy guano and thereby pay tag tax on it have already paid for the book and the information there is in it, and you ought to write to day and get it. It is free.

He Says Good-bye.

I have sold my interest in The Clipper to Hon. J. A. Carnley, and he goes in as editor with this issue. There is something sad to any feeling man in saying goodbye. I can not turn myself loose to say all the things I feel about severing my connection with The Clipper, and its friends and clientele. It would hardly be appropriate to say all that I feel today. Perhaps at some time I may ask space in The Clipper to write some reminiscences.

I desire to express my appreciation of the many acts of consideration and kindness that it has been my lot to receive from the people of Coffee county and for the patronage extended the business during my connection with it.

I will ever have a warm spot in my heart for A. R. Powell, now of Andalusia, who was my partner during more than six years of the life of the paper and to Mr. S. Felder, my partner for over three years. Upon Mr. Felder the conduct of the paper has practically all fallen in recent years. His efforts and kindness have alike endeared him to me.

For the brethren of the press I have the warmest feelings of gratitude. Uniformly courteous and obliging, they have made me feel that I was honored by being one of such a noble profession, composed, as it is, almost entirely of idealists and patriots—men who really strive to make the world better—to correct evils, to defend the weak, succor the needy, and, if need be, to fight the strong and powerful with little regard for the consequences. Whatever of the higher traits of mind and soul I may think I have, I know they have grown and developed through the devotion of the last years of boyhood and the early years of manhood to journalism.

In leaving the paper, I feel that I am leaving it in good hands. Nothing could have induced me to dispose of my interest and put it in the hands of irresponsible or hard-hearted persons. I have sold my interest in The Clipper to a fine gentleman, of culture and integrity. His attainments and tastes enable him to make The Clipper a great paper. He needs no introduction to the people of this section. That he will be a forceful and entertaining editor goes without saying.

For Mr. Felder, Mr. Carnley and The Clipper I bespeak a liberal patronage and the same kindly consideration along all lines that has so long been extended the paper and myself by the people of Coffee county. They and each of them deserve it and will do so more and more. Before I quit, let me say that the home advertising patronage of the paper has never been what its circulation has deserved. I hope for an improvement along this line. It could help the merchants and the town. I know this.

ELBA TRAIN WRECKED

BY A RUNAWAY CAR.

Brakeman Met Instant Death, Fireman Dangerously Hurt, Engineer and Mail Clerk Injured.

The Elba branch of the Coast Line has had wonderful luck last night, when on the trestle at Waterford there was a terrible accident.

At Well, five miles from Waterford, a freight train was switching, when a car loaded with guano in some way got loose and started down the main line to Waterford; the track from Well to Waterford is heavily down grade, so that the cars gained rapid headway, the brakes being in such shape that two brakemen on the car could not stop it, but had to jump for their lives. The freight car reached the trestle at Waterford just as the Elba train, coming from Dothan to Waterford, was on it. As the train has to stop on the trestle just before the switch is thrown for it to come out on the Elba branch track, the brakeman, George Winn, had gotten out on the cow-catcher to be in readiness to jump off and throw the switch. The runaway car struck the Elba train's engine a terrific blow. George Winn was horribly mangled and instantly killed.

The engine was turned up, as was the front of the mail and baggage car. Doley Robinson, the colored fireman, was dangerously hurt, but hope is entertained that he will recover. His hurts are bruises and scalds. Engineer Milford, is painfully scalded and bruised, but is not believed to be in any danger. Mail Clerk Talley was painfully bruised.

The Elba train reached Elba this morning at 4 o'clock. The remains of George Winn were brought here for burial. Mr. Milford was brought home. At this writing, Friday morning, he is doing nicely. Doley Robinson was left at Waterford, on account of being too badly hurt to be moved.

George Winn, the dead negro brakeman, was well thought of, and his death will be generally regretted by all who knew him.

SAW WRONG SHOW. Coffee County Lawyer Got "Stung" at Montgomery.

"A Coffee County lawyer came to Montgomery Monday night to hear Bryan. He went to the Grand Theatre. He purchased a ticket. He sat in a reserved seat. He waited for the curtain to ascend. He knew the Commoner would be there glowing in the center of a semi-circle of distinguished men.

The curtain ascended at 8:30. He saw Buster Brown. He saw not neither did he hear William Jennings Bryan. He considered himself stung. Nevertheless he sat through Buster Brown and enjoyed it.

"I thought most certainly that Bryan was going to speak at the Grand," he said after the Buster Brown show was over; "I just walked up to the box office and bought my ticket. I was unbecomely stung. I traveled all the way from Coffee county to hear Bryan and then didn't get a glimpse of him."

"But say, sport," he chuckled, "I shall guarantee every one of you that the next time I go away from home on such an errand I will read the newspaper carefully."—Montgomery Advertiser.

We have not yet learned the name of our Coffee County brother who met with such great disappointments, but when we do we will invite him to give us a glowing account of his experiences for the columns of The Clipper.

Elba Oranges. Mrs. Dallas P. Lee has in her hot house an orange tree that has matured several oranges this winter. The fruit is small, but has the flavor of the Florida fruit. It is certainly a novelty for this section.

The Montgomery Advertiser's cartoonist is certain that the "Budsweiser Boys" will put "bear" to the prohibition people in the senate today, but why that same cartoonist can not realize that it would be a public calamity to put whiskey back in Alabama, is the point that puzzles us very much at this distance; perhaps if we were nearer the young man the matter could be more readily understood.

$100,000.00 ON DEPOSIT. Southern Claims Fund Get Chance at Big Fund.

The house has adopted an amendment to the codification bill, which, if ratified by the senate and approved by the president, will extend the provisions of the captured and abandoned property act of March 12, 1863, and permit claims to be brought for some $100,000 collected under that act, which still remains in the federal treasury.

The adoption of this amendment by a vote of 125 to 85 was a victory for Representative Bartlett, of Georgia, who introduced and urged it in a strong speech.

Not only are the provisions of the act of 1863, formerly limited in operation to two years, made to apply to suits which may hereafter be brought in the court of claims, but the former requirement that the claimant must prove "loyalty" is stricken.

Representative Bartlett, in his statement to the house, said that the proceeds from the sale and capture of cotton, amounting to $4,695,000, and from other property to the value of $5,000,000, converted into the treasury under this act, remain on deposit. He argued that this money should be distributed to the original claimants or their descendants.

Salutatory.

With this issue, we assume the editorial management of the Elba Clipper.

It is our purpose to maintain the high and dignified editorial standing the Clipper has enjoyed under the management of its former contributors. No radical changes will be made in the policy of the paper. In the future, as in the past, it will be democratic. It will be a newspaper, and as such it will try to give news. On all public questions we may give our views, but views and news will not be mixed. We will strive to make the Clipper readable and helpful. We will endeavor to stand for high, noble ideals, for moral and civic righteousness, and whatever may tend to the upbuilding and development of the Country.

J. A. Carmichael.

Mr. Carmichael Retires.

With this issue, Hon. M. S. Carmichael, founder and continuous editor of the Elba Clipper for fourteen years, retires from journalism.

Mr. Carmichael is one of the most forceful writers in the state; his position on questions of public policy was always so plainly stated and logically contended for that he has endeared himself to the reading public. He labored zealously to instill into the minds of his readers the tenets of a high, manly and God-fearing code of morals, and being one of the most self-sacrificing men it has ever been our good pleasure to know, is deservedly popular, and his many friends join us in wishing for him a fullness of peace and #### prosperity.

Felder & Carnley. Personally, I wish to say, that during the years of my association with Mr. Carmichael I have found in him all that could be desired in a business partner and more than could be reasonably expected. I have never known a man more anxious to give a "square deal" to all men, or more patient and charitable with the faults of others. It is with much regret that I see him withdraw from this business.

Samuel Felder. The Parks local option bill is before the upper house of the legislature to-day for its final rejection or passage by that body, the measure already having passed the lower house with a few votes to spare. This is the most important legislative matter that will come before that body during the session, local and general matters are all side-tracked for the time, waiting for the final end of this whiskey fight. We are hopeful of the defeat of the bill by the senate, but should it pass that body and become a law, Coffee County, in our opinion, can always be depended upon to vote down both saloons and dispensaries. The burdensome feature of the bill for a large majority of counties in the state will be the expense and annoyance of holding elections.

It has been again determined by the legislature that the newspaper men of the state "must walk" and they were so fearful some poor isolated editor might "run the line" and get a free pass that they keep the old soldiers of the state walking to drive the lone-some feelings away.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 14.—(Special)—Kyle Price, a prominent young democrat, who hails from Dixieland, is "back from Elba" in the true sense of the word, says a dispatch. It may well be stated right here Mr. Price's home is in Elba, Ala., and that when he returned to Washington, a day or two ago, he received the personal assurance of Champ Clark that the position of reading clerk in the house of representatives would be open to him. Mr. Price visited Indiana during the campaign of 1908 and made a dozen speeches from the rear platform of the William Jennings Bryan special train, in behalf of the Nebraskan.

"I don't want to brag about myself or what I can do," explained Mr. Price, "but when it comes to speaking in the open air and making oneself heard I am the real megaphone kid. Now, in 1908, when I was on the Bryan special, we stopped at Bloomington and I addressed twelve thousand people during an outdoor speech, and I know that every man within a quarter of a mile of the platform on which I stood heard my voice."

Ability as Reading Clerk. "When I get to be reading clerk in the house I feel sure there will be no trouble about the boys hearing my voice. If I am calling the roll I will be able easily enough to reach any member of the house who might be lounging in the smoking room and he will surely hear his name called out in a loud, clear manner."

Reported By State Examiner C. E. McCall.

I check the accounts of the present Treasurer of the county, Mr. J. C. Davis, and it is my privilege to give him credit for showing every indication and intent for careful and honest discharge of duty. Every voucher, every paper pertaining to settlements which had been had with the different County Officials in receiving and paying out funds, had been carefully kept and were of easy and ready reference. Every dollar coming into his hands had been promptly and fully accounted for, and in payment of claims against the county, I find that he has exercised caution and prudence, and cases where a doubt had arisen as to the legality of the claim, he had paid such claim only on the advice of the County Attorney. Some claims which had been allowed by the Commissioner Court to the Sheriff for attending Commissioners Court, County Court, and Circuit Court. Also a claim allowed by Commissioners Court to the State of W. T. Everett, deceased, in payment of Commissioners as Treasurer of Coffee County, in payment of this claim was allowed by the impression that the County was due the late Treasurer a balance, when the fact is that the Treasurer at the time of his death was in debt to the county. The affairs of the Treasurer's Office are now managed with watchful care and give evidence of successful endeavor to discharge faithfully, and conscientiously all the duties of the office.

BY HUSTLER.

The prudent farmer seeth the boll weevil and shuneth it.

The boll weevil is not what we dread—its our next fall's guano note.

Hustler's logs have been rolled, his cake eat and the entertainment has been had. Now for the crop.

Hustler just keeps on a hustling. When Hustler puts his "shoulder to de wheel," de wheel rolls.

Much fencing has been destroyed by fire in this community recently, fire having caught out from where the farmers had been burning trash and logs, and from the turpentine men.

It has been unusually dry and windy for the time of year, and fires have proved to be almost uncontrollable.

The early good weather is causing the farmers to begin their farm work much sooner this year than has heretofore been customary. Hustler is afraid that if they continue to rush on so fast they will strike it just about right to be caught out by frosty mornings in April.

Butter not be too hasty kind farmer, time a plenty, time a plenty, sir—you can wait till after the freeze and then catch it in time to make a crop.

It seems that it has been quite hard for our present legislators to finally decide whether or not we shall abide with the "fire water."

None of the members of the present legislature who are farmers will hardly have the pleasure of getting back home in time to make a crop this year.

BRYAN AND RECIPROCITY.

Urges Passage of Bill—Wants Early Ratification.

In urging the early ratification by congress of the Canadian reciprocity agreement, William Jennings Bryan, before leaving New Orleans for Montgomery, made it plain that he regarded this as the most important question to come before the national legislators during the present session. "I hope the treaty will be ratified, and without delay," said Mr. Bryan. "Its benefits will be far-reaching. I might add that I think it was a neat little coup on the part of the Democratic congressmen to hold a caucus on the treaty question."

Mr. Bryan added that Champ Clark had demonstrated that his selection as speaker was very fortunate for the Democratic party.
